Familia Torres Cordillera Sauvignon Blanc

“By using Sauvignon Blanc from one of Chile’s most southerly vineyards, Torres has managed to craft a white wine with pungent green bean and capsicum aromatics, and a palate with plenty of fresh lime and a crisp, crunchy finish. An extreme and powerfully scented form of refreshment.”

"This bottle, now just £7.99, was our best buy in our roundup of the best wines to drink this Organic September. Our tester said: "In the mouth, hearty plum flavours and a fine acidity give way to a lingering black pepper finish left us wanting more,"

Yalumba Organic Viognier, 2019

“Made from the viognier grape, this white has interesting aromatics: lively lemony notes with gorgeous flavours of mandarin and peach. It’s crisp with lemony acidity under delicate pear fruit, plus there’s a touch of almond.”

Symington Family Estates Altano Organic Douro, 2019

“An organic blend of local varieties, this Douro is full of the beautiful floral aromatics of sweet black cherries and blackberries, with some notes of olives and fine green herbs. The palate is fresh and focused, with excellent tannins and acidity, supple black fruits and subtle hints of tar”

DAILY EXPRESS

Familia Torres Sangre de Toro, 2019

“Another very tasty Spanish red (blended with carinena grapes). Perhaps not quite as explosive as La Multa, above, if a little lighter on the pocket. This is a classic supermarket wine, great value and very decent taste and aroma. Available from Tesco, Asda and Sainsbury’s.”

Vasse Felix 'Filius' Cabernet Merlot, 2019

“At just under a tenner on offer, this stunning value for a serious bottle that will develop further over the next five years. For now, it is bright and pure with fresh blackcurrant red plum and a savoury undertow.”
